

Ipaki

Ipaki

designer : Mike Vanbelleghem

Ipaki means 'peacock' in Zulu, one of the official languages of South Africa. Each leaf of the lamp resembles a peacock feather and its typical eyespot.

The leaves are made up from 2 types of wood that are cross-glued. A dark wooden one on the outside, and a lighter one inside. This entirely wooden lamp can be dismantled, flat-packed and easily transported.

Passion4Wood says it all, a passion for wood in all its variety. Passion4Wood stands for unique wooden lamps and lighting sculptures, which transform any space into a mesmerizing and inspiring environment. Founded in 2009 and based in Ostend (Belgium) our business now is present in Europa and further abroad.

Passion4Wood creates upon demand

Not only can already existing lamps be adjusted to any wish, Passion4Wood also specialises in custom-made designs. Together with our clients we realise unique concepts for small to large interiors, shops, restaurants etc. Furthermore our collaboration with several (interior) architects is a guarantee for an overall concept, unique in its kind and size. Each design is realised in our own atelier.
